MEET JODY

Jody's ability to capture a student's attention through storytelling is inspirational. His vast experience working with students for over 20 years shows in the way he plans and leads each school assembly. Jody's heart and his drive to help students succeed and stay safe is what make's him a fantastic presenter, and his southern accent makes him fun to listen to.

SAY SOMETHING TEAM

MEET ANDREW

Andrew's sense of humor is his super power. He uses it to engage the students and relate to them on their terms, using current references that they understand.

As a teenager, Andrew went from living at a truck stop, to hanging drywall, to college, then spending a decade as a youth counselor. He is passionate about helping everyone he meets overcome obstacles to find a better life.

SAY SOMETHING TEAM

MEET LEAH

Leah's heart and love for students comes across boldly as she shares her story of overcoming childhood traumas and addiction.

Her message to students is powerful and inspires them to realize how important they are and no matter how hard it gets they can make it through and make an impact in the world.

Many of the students flock to her after the assembly and share with her their own struggles.

SAY SOMETHING TEAM

MEET BO

Bo's sense of humor and his transparency help to tell his story of going from an athlete to a national DJ, and from jail to thoughts of ending his life. His story shows the reality of how success doesn't come easy.

Today you can find Bo mentoring kids in his home town of Jackson, MS. Showing kids that their circumstances do not define them, and what they go through today doesn't determine who they will be tomorrow.

SAY SOMETHING TEAM

MEET JASON

Jason Anderson knows how to unite a crowd with the power of music. From traveling the world playing music before crowds of thousands to opening his own business in his home state of Mississippi, Jason is one amazing presenter! He uses his own experiences growing up, dealing with bullies, to relate to the students and inspire them to dream big.

MEET TRAVIS

Travis has been communicating to middle and high school students for over 25 years. Over those years, Travis has had the privilege of speaking to nearly 500,000 students across the US and around the globe.

Travis is a storyteller, he uses life to teach about life and uses humor to deliver the message home. He is driven to communicate to students that they are not alone and there are people around them that care about them and can help them navigate the difficulties they experience.
